

Barking Mad at Murder

1. Do you think it was ethical for Frankie to fake her pet psychic abilities, even though she was helping pets and owners through her animal behavior knowledge?
2. Frankie learned how to “cold read” people from her Aunt Gertrude. How good are you at reading other people's body language? Give some examples.
3. Do you ever feel like you can understand what your pet is thinking?
4. Is Frankie weak because she acknowledges her limitations? Or is she a realist?
5. Bowers doesn't believe in Frankie's psychic abilities. Have you ever refused to believe something even when confronted with facts?
6. Jennifer Peters feels that her husband's wealthy associates were condescending towards her. Have you ever felt that someone was looking down his or her nose at you? How did you respond?
7. Which man do you think is better suited to Frankie, Bowers or Seamus? Why?
8. Do people put too much importance on what their pets are thinking?
9. Penny is an optimist, while Frankie is a cynic. Which worldview do you relate to most?
10. Frankie suspects Carlos because of his past involvement with the law. Is it reasonable to judge someone based on his or her past mistakes?
